Helping South African businesses grow through practical consulting, operational support, digital innovation, and personalised service.

About Us

RedOlive Estates Pty Ltd, trading as Unifier, is a South African consulting business focused on helping companies improve operations, strengthen processes, and grow sustainably through practical, affordable, and personalised support. Since 2015, the company has provided consulting services across multiple industries while also managing the day-to-day operations of Unifier CCTV.

Our work is grounded in a hands-on approach, strong client relationships, and a genuine commitment to helping businesses thrive. We believe that expert support should be effective, accessible, responsive, and aligned to the realities of each client's business.

Mission

To provide South African businesses with affordable, practical consulting and operational support that improves efficiency, strengthens processes, and enables sustainable growth through personalised service and trusted long-term relationships.

Vision

To be a trusted business partner to growing South African companies by helping them prosper through accessible expertise in management, automation, technology, and operational improvement, delivered with a personal, family-like approach.
